RIVERFEST

SMALL TOWN. BIG OUTDOORS.

Where the Dan and Smith rivers meet, our community thrives. The city of Eden is the perfect balance of an energetic downtown set in the great outdoors. From shopping to dining and paddling to hiking, there's a bit of paradise here for everyone. The city actually formed when three small mill towns, Leaksville, Spray, and Draper, merged in the late 1960s. Eden's motto, "Land of Two Rivers," summarizes what makes the city a great attraction for industry, residents, and visitors alike. Today, Eden offers the buzz of city life with its planned neighborhoods, shopping centers, restaurants, brewery, splash pad, and city parks, but without the crowds and congestion found in nearby metropolitan areas.

MADISON RIVER PARK

WHERE THE TWO RIVERS MEET.

The town of Madison is nestled at the junction of the Mayo and Dan Rivers. The town incorporated in 1873 and is named for President Madison, our nation's fourth President. Originally 50 tobacco plants made Madison the largest tobacco manufacturing center in the world prior to the Civil War. Today, Madison thrives on a diverse mix of industries, river access parks, and its revitalized downtown district, which features a number of unique shops, restaurants, and the county's first social district which highlights the town's craft brewery, distillery, and wine bar.

ALL TRACKS LEAD TO MAYODAN.

The town of Mayodan grew around the railroad and the Mayo Mills textile industry. The rail line that was constructed to move goods from Roanoke, Virginia to Winston-Salem, North Carolina resulted in the development of mill towns such as Mayodan along the way. The town incorporated in 1899 and its name is the combination of neighboring rivers, the Mayo and the Dan. Today, Mayodan is a quiet, friendly town home to over 2,000 people. Manufacturing still plays a major role in Mayodan with companies such as Gildan Yarns, Milliken and Company, McMichael Mills, Sturm Ruger & Co., Blow Molded Solutions, and Bridgestone Aircraft Tire.

DOWNTOWN STONEVILLE

A STONES THROW FROM THE TRIAD.

Stoneville, the County's smallest town, stretches along the US Highway 220 corridor, just below the Virginia state line. In the early 1800s settlers developed the community originally known as Mayo, which grew around the general store of Thomas and Pinkney Stone. The town incorporated in 1877 as Stoneville and tobacco was also its major economic force. The construction of the Roanoke and Southern railway also brought prosperity to the town. Today, Stoneville's economy is based on textiles, furniture, and small businesses.
